I don't have time!, I'm short on time!, time flies!, I have the "Time's up!", etc., were some of the expressions heard daily in the city of Maximum Speed. We can imagine that people walked a lot.

They were in a hurry, they hardly spoke, they had breakfast and lunch while walking, among other things.

However, there were still some who received a little bit of time to stop for a while in a square or park to watch how a

The little man took some envelopes containing a green powder out of his briefcase, and then explained the following:

– This is a preparation made from one hundred herbs brought from the mountains, the Jungle, China, and India. It is taken on an empty stomach for thirty days, after which you will see surprising results, such as: you will feel very, very relaxed, eager to do your things and with less effort than usual, but above all, you will have time, time! Plenty of time to have fun, go for walks with your family, contemplate the sunlight, raise children.

He just mentioned the properties of the "miracle product" and without
When they found out the price, several of those present shouted: "Give me one!"

It was already noon and she had almost sold two hundred envelopes; the next day...
People were waiting for it to buy more ready-made gifts for their family and friends.

He, his wife, and their two young children would arrive a week later. After six months, they rented.
a place in the market to sell the product wholesale and retail.

Two years later he opened several stores across the country and increasingly "the
"The time seller," as his customers called him, had less time to spend with his family and sleep in...
